From Program Chair Amy Leisenring

I first met Amy Orr when we served on the PSA Nominations Committee together in 2010. In subsequent years we served on several Program Committees together and also served on overlapping years as PSA Council members. I’ve thus gotten to know her fairly well over the years and have enjoyed seeing her at annual PSA conferences. I’ve always been very impressed with Amy’s work style. She is committed, patient, resourceful, genuine, and unflappable. She is extremely dedicated to PSA. The theme she selected for this year’s conference reflects her commitment to teaching and to students. When she asked me to serve as this year’s Program Chair, I knew that working with her would only be a positive experience. It has been a true honor to work with her in putting together the 2018 conference.

I would like to thank the 2018 Program Committee members. This year’s conference would not have been successful without their time, effort, and expertise. I would also like to give a huge thank you to our Executive Director, Lora Bristow, for her knowledge, hard work, and patience. She has been a pleasure to work with.

March 6, 2018

Dear Members and Officers of the Pacific Sociological Association,

On behalf of the Second District of Long Beach, I am delighted to extend a warm welcome to everyone attending the Pacific Sociological Association (PSA) Annual Meetings—Teaching Sociology: Innovations, Changes, and Challenges—being held at the beautiful Hyatt Regency from March 28 – 31, 2018. I am excited the PSA is returning to Long Beach for the second time in three years!

As the oldest regional sociological association in the U.S., the PSA has long been dedicated to advancing the science and practice of sociological research, teaching, and service. The PSA offers attendees a rich environment to explore, develop and disseminate sociological analyses of fundamental problems associated with justice. This year’s theme is particularly timely as we confront new challenges to the importance of facts and evidence in our decision-making processes. I know how important teaching and mentoring are to PSA members and this Conference will not only provide an opportunity to engage in meaningful debate about issues and teaching pedagogies, but serve as a venue to recognize PSA members for their outstanding professional accomplishments and contributions.

As a graduate of the CSU, Long Beach sociology department, having the 2018 PSA Conference in Long Beach is particularly meaningful. While you are here, however, I urge everyone to take time to not only enjoy our amazing weather, but to discover all we have to offer, from first-class attractions, to a host of entertainment options, to wonderful architecture and eclectic neighborhoods, and our wide sandy beaches.

Please enjoy your stay and I look forward to the PSA returning to Long Beach in the near future.

Sincerely,

Jeannine Pearce
A NOTE OF APPRECIATION FROM THE PRESIDENT

I would like to take a moment to welcome everyone to Long Beach and the 89th Annual Meeting of the Pacific Sociological Association, and to thank all who have been instrumental in planning the program and organizing the meeting. We have another great program this year due to the initiative and diligence of many fabulous people. I would like to thank Amy Leisenring, our Program Chair, who did an amazing job of planning/coordinating the program. Amy has been very engaged with the PSA for many years, and it was an honor to have her serve in this position. Those of you who have had an opportunity to work with her will not be surprised to hear that she went above and beyond the normal tasks associated with this position. Amy also selected a fantastic program committee, who meticulously worked on special sessions and organizing papers from the open call into numerous high-quality sessions. I would like to extend a special thank you to Robert Kettlitz for his work as the undergraduate coordinator. For many years now, he has organized hundreds of undergraduate submissions into roundtables and poster sessions. He understands the importance of our students in the organization, and ensures that they have a positive experience. I would also like to thank Gary Hytrek, who not only chaired the Social Conscience Committee, but also served as our “local expert” in Long Beach. He was instrumental in planning the tours and entertainment. In addition, thank you to all of the PSA committee chairs and committee members, as well as the individual PSA members, who organized sessions around the theme (as well as several other sessions). They had no obligation to undertake this task. We will benefit from all of their hard work.

In addition, I would like to thank several others who have played a key role in making this meeting, and the PSA, a success. For example, it has been wonderful working with such a committed Board of Directors. Thank you for all of the time that you devote to the PSA. I would also like to extend a special thank you to Lora Bristow, our Executive Director. Lora does the work that keeps our organization running, and much more. One cannot truly understand what this entails until you have had an opportunity to work with her “behind the scenes” (and, even then, you still cannot get the full picture). Those inside and outside of the PSA often throw things at Lora that would cause many of us to break. I am extremely grateful that she holds this position. I would also like to thank Wendy Ng, our Vice President. I have had the privilege of working with Wendy in a number of different ways, and, regardless of the task at hand, she is thoughtful, organized, and dedicated. Moreover, I would like to thank Tina Burdsall for always being willing to step forward when help is needed. Her work as the PSA secretary, and as the volunteer coordinator, has been invaluable. Additionally, I would like to thank Patricia Gwartney for the many ways that she has served. Patty brings a wealth of knowledge to our organization, and her input and remarkable eye for detail is always appreciated.

There are many others to whom I am grateful as well. I would like to thank, for example, the editors and editorial board of Sociological Perspectives, as well as the Publications Committee, for all of the time and energy that they commit to the journal. We all benefit from your devotion. I would also like to thank several organizations with whom the PSA has built strong partnerships. These include, but are not limited to, Alpha Kappa Delta, the American Sociological Association, SAGE, and Sociologists for Women in Society (SWS). These relationships are incredibly important and beneficial for all involved.

Next, I greatly appreciate all of the individuals who give to the PSA in a variety of ways. In addition to those already mentioned above, I would specifically like to thank all of the terrific student volunteers who have given their time to making the registration process run smoothly, and the many generous individuals who have donated to the Endowment Fund and the Endowment Auction.

Finally, to all of our meeting participants, without you, there would be no need to convene. Thank you for your commitment to making the annual meeting of the PSA a vibrant, intellectual forum.

I am greatly honored to have served as president of the PSA this year. Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Congratulations to our next two presidents, Elaine Bell Kaplan and Dennis Downey. You will be great.

Amy J. Orr, Ph.D.
President, Pacific Sociological Association
Thematic Sessions

Broad Challenges

Wednesday • 1:45 PM–3:15 PM Teaching and Learning in a Climate of Oppression and Surveillance, Sponsored by Committee on Civil Rights & Civil Liberties
Organizer: Desire Anastasia, MSU Denver
Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
- Panopticon and Data Brokers: Evolution of Control (Ralph Pioquinto, CSU LA)

- Diversity and Inclusion Development at Cal State, East Bay (Duke Austin and Deepika Mathur, CSU East Bay)
- Perceptions of Women's Academic Leadership, Challenges and Opportunities for Change at a Predominantly Hispanic Serving Institution (Kara Dellacipopa and Anthony Normore, CSU Dominguez Hills)

Thursday • 12:00 PM–1:30 PM The New Era of Campus Politics: Struggles over Ideology and Identity in Four Battleground States
American university campuses are both the subject of, and home to, political contentiousness not seen since the 1960s. Both now and 50 years ago, students have been key mobilizing agents, staging protests and other events to advocate their political perspectives. Despite the commonalities, the current period is marked by additional forces. First, the Trump presidency has created opportunities for previously illegitimate political actors, such as white nationalists, to use university campuses as beachheads for their movement. Second, as recent polls have shown, student unrest is paired with a growing, overall public mistrust in the mission of higher education, as evidenced by critique on issues ranging from free speech to college debt. Third, large national organizations—thus far, particularly on the right—have underwritten student activism on campus in an unprecedented fashion. Expanding on themes each of us has developed in prior research on conservative activism, in this project, we study student activism across the political spectrum during academic year 2017-2018. Our research design is to focus on public flagship campuses in four battleground states—Arizona, Colorado, Virginia, and North Carolina—with a particular eye to how national organizations, university resources, and student groups intersect in the production of campus politics. In this session, we will present findings from two of our case study campuses.
Organizer: Amy J. Orr, Linfield College
Speakers: Amy Binder, UC San Diego; Jeffrey Kidder, N. Illinois University

Friday • 12:00 PM–1:30 PM Fighting Fake News with Project Censored: A Workshop for Educators, Students, and Concerned Citizens
Are you an educator interested in adding media literacy to your courses? Are you a student who wants to study media, propaganda, and censorship? Are you a media consumer concerned about fake news? For over 40 years, Project Censored has been monitoring the state of our free press while exposing corporate media and government censorship and propaganda. The Project produces an annual book (published by Seven Stories Press in New York) that lauds intrepid independent journalists and promotes critical media literacy education. In their latest work, they discuss the importance of press freedoms and public education in a "post-truth" world of so-called alternative facts and fake news. The Project highlights the work of reporters who write about crucial issues for independent/alternative publications year around and remind the public why we need fearless investigative journalists now more than ever. Project Censored continues to critique the increase of Junk Food Abuse (propaganda) in our infotainment culture, and through their college affiliate programs, they strongly promote critical media literacy education. In this session, we will present findings from two of our case study campuses.
Organizer: Amy J. Orr, Linfield College
Facilitators: Mickey Huff and Andy Lee Roth, Project Censored

Teaching Sociology

Wednesday • 8:00AM–5:00PM AKD Workshop on Teaching and Learning
Are you looking for ways to increase student learning without exhausting yourself in the process? Join colleagues interested in teaching pedagogy, practical application, and the scholarship of teaching and learning from a variety of academic settings in a workshop designed to expose the inner workings of course design, student engagement, meaningful learning, and effective assessment. Participants will craft a unique workshop experience from a selection of roundtable discussions best suited to their individual interests and needs. Time will be allocated for networking with colleagues interested in sharing ideas, gaining support, and building collaboration, so participants are encouraged to bring business cards to share.
Organizer: Susan Murray, San Jose State University

Wednesday • 12:00PM–1:30PM Research on Teaching: Engaged Educators
Organizer: Susan Murray, San Jose State University
Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:

- Improving Outcomes: Coordinating Teaching Methods to Course Objectives (Christina Sanchez Volatier, Western New Mexico University)
- Teaching U.S. Civics to Senior Adults: Social Relations, Solidarity and Collective Strength (Daisy Herrera, CSU LA)
- Cultivating Quantitative Literacy in the Introductory Course: Assessing the Effectiveness of Instructional Videos (Dennis Downey and J. Brooke Ernest, CSU Channel Islands)

Wednesday • 12:00PM–1:30PM Rethinking Course Design and Effective Pedagogy
Organizer: Susan Murray, San Jose State University
Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
- Beyond Traditional Cultural Competencies in Teaching Sociology (Carol Minton-Ryan, California Baptist University)
- Sociology of Neuroscience and The Emotional Process of Teaching (Corina Diaz, Cerritos College)
- Designing Effective Experiential Learning Despite Time and Resource Constraints (Akiko Yasuike, California Lutheran University)
- Faculty Experiences with Creating and Implementing Service Learning Courses (Leslie Abell, California State University Channel Islands)
- My Journey with Openstax Tutor Beta (Deidre Tyler, Salt Lake Community College)
Wednesday • 3:30 PM–5:00 PM Teaching Ethnography
Teaching, as Gary Alan Fine reminds us, is like ethnographic fieldwork, in that it is always “dirty work.” As a result, we must ask how does this dirty work get done inside and outside the classroom? In attempting to answer this question, this panel brings together a diverse group of ethnographers to discuss the multiple ways we engage in “teaching ethnography.”

as craft/academic labor, teaching ethnography as a theory and method, and teaching ethnography as public engagement and as profession.
Organizers: Black Hawk Hancock, DePaul University
Invited Panelists: Andrew Deemer, University of Connecticut; Susan Mannon, University of the Pacific; Daniel Morrison, Vanderbilt University; Melanie Gast, University of Louisville

Thursday • 8:30 AM–10:00 AM Teaching as Social Justice, Social Justice as Teaching
Organizer: Susan Murray, San Jose State University
Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
Teaching Social Welfare Policy through a Comparative Analysis (Nina Michalikova, U. of C. Oklahoma)
Fighting Food Insecurity With Student Engagement (Amanda Studebaker, CSU Bakersfield)
Embodying Ethnographic Data: An Interactive Approach for Teaching Intersectionality (Jeffrey Gardner, Sam Houston State University; Ashleigh McKinzie, Middle Tennessee State University)
Understanding “Gobbledygook”: Sociology Students’ Information Literacy in an Era of Fake News and Fake Science (Katy Pinto, CSU Dominguez Hills)

Thursday • 8:30 AM–10:00 AM Teaching Sociology at Community College: Innovations, Changes, and Challenges I, Sponsored by the Committee on Teaching on Community Colleges
Organizer: Jackie Logg, Cabrillo College
The first of two sessions that address issues related to teaching sociology at community colleges. Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
Teaching Social Problems at a Community College: Incorporating Local Social Problems (Matthew Gougherty, Yakima Valley College)
Intersecting Social Problems: Rethinking Course Curriculum (Zendina Mostert, Salt Lake Comm. College)
CBL in Action: Community College Students Engaging in Community Outreach with Local Middle Schools (Heidi Esbensen, Portland State University)

Thursday • 10:15 AM–11:45 AM Teaching Introduction to Sociology: Best Practices to Construct the Sociological Imagination, Sponsored by the Committee on Teaching
Organizer: Ting Jiang, Metropolitan State University of Denver.
Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
Sociology Speaks: Sociology as a Multi-disciplinary Tool-kit (Timothy Larkin, Grand Canyon University)
Teaching Introduction to Sociology in a First Year Success Classroom (Ting Jiang, MSU of Denver)
How to Teach Race and Ethnicity Effectively in Classrooms? (Huifying Hill, Weber State University)
Using Sociological Images to Develop the Sociological Imagination (Georgiana Bostean and Lisa Leitz, Chapman University)
Connecting the "Selfie" to the Sociological Imagination: A Description and Analysis of a Photo Class Activity (Jason Leiker, Julie Gast, Emma Earl, and Lindsey Marchant, Utah State University)

Thursday • 12:00 PM–1:30 PM Teaching Race and Ethnic Relations: Challenges and Opportunities, Sponsored by the Committee on Teaching
Organizer: Elvia Ramirez, CSU Sacramento
Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
A DisCrit Analysis of Special Education Teacher Beliefs about the Intersections of Disability and Race (Saili Kulkarni, CSU Dominguez Hills)
Making Black Life Matter on an Historically White Campus (Emily Drew, Willamette University)
Navigating Racialized Cultural Practices in Transracial Adoptive Families (Horizon Worden, Northern Arizona University)

Thursday • 12:00 PM–1:30 PM Going Open: A Critical Analysis of the Radical Open Education Revolution
Open Education is a social movement that has addressed the rising costs of Higher Education by offering free or low cost textbooks to faculty and students. This workshop will give an overview of the Open Education movement, honestly discuss the strengths and weaknesses that this approach has experienced and make a plan to ensure that this movement maintains academic rigor for our field.
Panelists: Dan Poole and Zendina Mostert, Salt Lake Community College; Ramona Pires, San Bernardino Valley College; T.L. Brink, Crafton Hills College

Thursday • 1:45 PM–3:15 PM Best Practices in Building Memorable and Meaningful Learning Experiences in “Introduction to Sociology”, Sponsored by the Committee on Teaching
Organizer: Jimiliz Valiente-Neighbors, Point Loma Nazarene University
Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
“Writing as Thinking” in the Introductory Sociology Classroom (Megan Alpine, UC Santa Cruz)
Challenging the "US verse Them" Thinking in an Introduction to Sociology Course (Shannel Sanchez, Southern Oregon University; Nicholas Park)
Some Thoughts on Making Introduction to Sociology "Sociological" (Linda Henderson, St. Mary’s University, Calgary)
Teaching in the Iron Cage: Innovative Prison Education (Zendina Mostert, Salt Lake Community College)

Thursday • 5:15 PM–6:45 PM Teaching During Tough Times: Using Videos in the Classroom
This session is about how to use media effectively to teach about difficult topics. A variety of film/video clips will be shown to provide faculty sources for their own classroom use. The subject matter of the media will be discussed along with the various courses and theoretical concepts for which showing them would be appropriate. All resources will be shared with participants. This session will also focus on how to facilitate discussions about content that is controversial and that may challenge students’ perceptions of the world.
Organizer: Marcia Marx, CSU San Bernardino
Panelists: Marcia Marx, Patricia Little, Mary Texeira, and Elsa Valdez, CSU San Bernardino
Friday • 10:15 AM–11:45 AM Teaching Up: Teaching about Privilege as a Traditionally Marginalized Person, Sponsored by Committee on Teaching

A diverse panel of sociology faculty including veteran faculty, community college faculty, online and adjunct faculty who identify as being from a variety of groups traditionally marginalized due to race, gender, sexual orientation, and religion discuss their experiences teaching about privilege in their classes. They will share personal anecdotes as well as techniques and best practices for teaching about privilege, and also allow time for an in-depth discussion and Q&A during the panel session. You are invited to come and share your experiences as we learn from each other.

Organizer: Celeste Atkins, Cochise College
Invited Panelists: Celeste Atkins, Cochise College; Alondo (A.C.) Campbell, Santa Ana College; Elsa Valdez, California State University, San Bernardino; Lata Murti, Brandman University; Jean-Pierre Gatillon, Mt. San Antonio College

Friday • 12:00 PM–1:30 PM GIFTS: Great Ideas for Teaching Sociology, Sponsored by Emeritus and Retired Sociologists Committee

Presenters will have around 10-15 minutes to discuss/present an idea or technique or assignment, etc. that has worked for them in the classroom. Any area or subject in sociology is welcomed. The purpose of the session is to have members of the audience leave with something they can use to improve teaching and learning; that is they will leave with a gift from the presenters.

Organizer: Dean Dorn, CSU Sacramento
Panelists: Todd Migliaccio, Aya Ida, Patricia Morris, Yusu Kskada, and Dylan Baker, CSU Sacramento; Linda Henderson, St. Mary’s University, Calgary; Dennis Downey and J. Brooke Ernest, CSU Channel Islands

Friday • 12:00 PM–1:30 PM How Dare You Teach That: The Gendered Classroom, Sponsored by the Committee on the Status of Women

Organizer: Judy Hennessy, Central Washington University
Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
- Feminist Oceanic Pedagogy: Learning and Teaching Interflow (Penny-Bee Kapitialoha Bovard, U. of Hawaii at Manoa)
- Gendering Environmental Justice: Developing a Structural and Intersectional Analysis and Sense of Collective Agency in the Classroom (Lori Baralt, CSU Long Beach)
- Nobody Asked for It: Teaching about Sexual Assault and Violence in a Criminology Course, Challenges and Opportunities for the Feminist Scholar (Stacy McGoldrick and Erika DeJonghe, Cal Poly Pomona)

Friday • 1:45 PM–3:15 PM Engaged Pedagogies I

Organizer: Susan Murray, San Jose State University
Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
- A Knapsack for Student Engagement: Innovative Student Activities (Santos Torres and Debra Welkley, CSU Sacramento)
- Active Learning Strategies to Use in Online Classes (Patricia Hoffman, New Mexico State University)
- The Pedagogical Power of the Post-It Note (Kathryn Hadley, Hanover College)
- Using Documentary Photography in the Sociology Classroom (Susan Mannon, University of the Pacific)
- The Sociology Style Assessment: A "Personality" Type Tool that Help Students Recognize the Core Areas of Sociological Theory They Already Resonate With (Daniel Davis, UC San Diego)

Saturday • 10:15 AM–11:45 AM Reflections on Teaching by Emeritus and Retired Faculty, Sponsored by Emeritus and Retired Sociologists Committee

This session dovetails on the theme of the PSA 89th annual meetings: "Teaching Sociology: Innovations, Changes, and Challenges." Panelists will address pedagogical evolution over time; effective strategies and techniques for teaching sociology; teachable moments; and reflections and hindsight on teaching. The session will conclude with Q&A between panelists, followed by audience Q&A.

Organizer: Anthony Cortese, Southern Methodist University
Invited Panelists: Gary Crester, Cal Poly Pomona; Glenn Goodwin, University of La Verne; Jean Stockard, University of Oregon; J. Daniel McMillin, California State University, Bakersfield; Patricia Hoffman, New Mexico State University

Saturday • 10:15 AM–11:45 AM Engaged Pedagogies II

Organizer: Susan Murray, San Jose State University
Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
- Narrative Storytelling in Teaching Sociology (Chelsea Platt, Park University)
- Teaching through Self-Disclosure (Amanda Brand, Northern Arizona University)
- What Matters to You? Constructing Understanding and Finding Passion through Student-Created Podcasts: the Value of Digital Storytelling in the Classroom (Risa Garelick, Northern Arizona University)
- Teaching Student Presentations: New Techniques for Effective Learning (Terri Anderson, UCLA)
- Research into Action: Raising the Racial Literacy of White-Identified Faculty (Susan Murray, San Jose State University)

Saturday • 12:00 PM–1:30 PM Teaching Sociology at Community College: Innovations, Changes, and Challenges II, Sponsored by the Committee on Community Colleges

Organizer: Dan Poole, Salt Lake Community College
The second of two sessions that address issues related to teaching sociology at community colleges. Presentations submitted through the open call for papers:
- Barnga: Teaching Culture with a Silent Card Game (Dan Poole, Salt Lake Community College)
- Colored Girls and Controlling Images: Using Multiracial Feminist Theory to Transform Pedagogy (Celeste Atkins, Cochise College)
- Introducing the "Contingent Labor Conditions Score": A Tool for Building Equity Among Contingent and Non-Contingent Faculty Across Institutions (Daniel Davis, UC San Diego)
- Socio-Culture Adjustment of International Students in Ahmedabad City, Gujarat (Jhaver Patel, Gujarat University Ahmedabad India; Subhash Pandar, Gujarat Vidhyapith)
Thursday • 8:30 AM–10:00 AM Preparing for a Program Review
This session is a professional workshop lead by members of the American Sociological Association's Department Resources Group, a part of the Academic and Professional Affairs Program of the ASA. DRG consultants are highly-trained individuals who are familiar with the latest developments in sociology curriculum, national standards and best practices including the 2017 ASA document The Sociology Major in the Changing Landscape of Higher Education: Curriculum, Careers and Online Learning (Pike et. al.). This workshop will help departments prepare for an upcoming program review.
Organizer/Facilitator: Jeff Chin, LeMoyne College and Panelist Shirley A. Jackson, Portland State University

Thursday • 10:15 AM–11:45 AM Redesigning the Sociology Curriculum: Principles, Priorities, and Challenges
The Sociology Program at CSU Channel Islands is completing an extensive multi-year process to redesign its curriculum, guided by best practices and principles (primarily from the ASA “liberal learning” documents, but drawing on a range of sources from inside and outside the discipline). We will present a number of key components of our work in an attempt to distill the lessons that we have learned along the way -- as well as to identify specific priorities (and how they were reached) and specific challenges (in terms of content, and in terms of buy-in) that have been addressed along the way. We believe that our experiences are timely, given the recent release of the newest ASA Liberal Learning document (LL3) which will encourage programs to update their curricula for the 21st century challenges that our students confront. We will leave plenty of time for Q&A from audience members who may be considering their own curricular revisions.
Organizer: Dennis Downey, CSU Channel Islands
Panelists: Leslie Abell, Dennis Downey, Reha Kadakal, Sunghee Nam, Luis Sanchez, Elizabeth Sowers, and Lindsey Trimble-O’Connor, CSU Channel Islands

Thursday • 10:15 AM–11:45 AM A Conversation about the Master’s Degree in Sociology
This workshop will provide an extended and fully participatory conversation about the MA in sociology. Using the classic SWOT analysis frame work, workshop participants will be guided through a discussion of the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats for MA programs in today’s higher ed context. Particular focus will be given to identifying practical and positive short term, medium term, and long term responses to each element of the analysis.
Organizer: Wendy Ng, SJSU
Presenter: Margaret Weigers Vitullo, ASA

Friday • 1:45 PM–3:15 PM The Sociology Major in the Changing Landscape of Higher Education
This workshop builds on the American Sociological Association’s work in building undergraduate curriculum and connecting this to changing practices in higher education, including online education as well as career outcomes for the sociology major. We will discuss recommended practices for sustaining high quality and comprehensive sociology programs for undergraduates, best practices in development of curriculum, and how the sociology major is situated within the broader scope of higher education.
Organizer: Wendy Ng, SJSU
Presenter: Margaret Weigers Vitullo, ASA

Saturday • 10:15 AM–11:45 AM Building Pathways for Student Success: Lessons from a Regional Partnership between 2-year and 4-year Institutions
The panel represents the primary partners in a Regional Sociology Council, sponsored through a grant to increase the transfer pipeline from 2-year institutions to the public regional 4-year university, and to increase student success once they have made the transfer. The panel includes faculty from both types of institutions, and will discuss lessons from our ongoing partnership to find specific initiatives that we can undertake to promote student transfer and success -- including faculty and student exchanges across institutions, and curricular redesign and alignment. The panel will focus on our particular experiences, but will be designed to inform other potential partnerships between 2-year and 4-year institutions, as a crucial linkage in contemporary higher education.
Organizer: Dennis Downey, CSU Channel Islands
Panelists: Dolores Ortiz and Juan Pimentes, Oxnard College; Lauri Moore, Ventura College; Reha Kadakal and Dennis Downey, CSU Channel Islands

Sociology Programming/Curriculum

Publishing Scholarship on Teaching and Learning
Thursday • 3:30 PM–5:00 PM Publishing Scholarship on Teaching and Learning: Teaching Resources and Innovations Library for Sociology (TRAILS) and Teaching Sociology, Sponsored by Committee on Teaching
Do you want to learn how to contribute to the scholarship of teaching and learning within the discipline of sociology? Are you presenting the results of an innovative pedagogical strategy at this year’s meeting? This interactive workshop, led by editorial leaders representing the Teaching Resources and Innovations Library for Sociology (TRAILS) and the journal Teaching Sociology (TS), will provide information on publication outlets for your work. Workshop participants will discuss the differences in submissions to TRAILS and TS, as well as ways that the two resources are creating bridges. Discussions will illuminate expectations for research articles, research notes, conversation submissions, and book/video reviews in TS, and provide opportunities for attendees to craft a submission outline. The structure and content of TRAILS submissions will be presented. Various assessment strategies will be considered, as well as formulation of measurable learning goals. Strategies of strengthening submissions will be examined. Additionally, under-examined areas of inquiry will be identified, along with guidance on ways to formulate projects to fit into unexplored domains. This workshop will be especially useful for meeting attendees who are presenting original work on pedagogy and curriculum design at the annual meeting.
Organizer: Elvia Ramirez, CSU Sacramento
Invited Panelists: Stephen Sweet, Ithaca College; Michele Lee Kozimor-King, Elizabethtown College; Margaret Weigers Vitullo, ASA; Julie Pelton, University of Nebraska, Omaha
Mentoring

Wednesday • 3:30 PM–5:00 PM Student Mentoring and Support: Experiences, Strategies, and Innovations, Sponsored by the Endowment Committee
Organizer: Amanda M. Shigihara, SUNY College at Old Westbury

Jobs in Academia

Thursday • 1:45 PM–3:15 PM Teaching as Latinx Faculty in Higher Education
This panel will focus on the experiences of Latinx faculty in the classroom and as professional academics. The presenters will cover a range of topics that relate to faculty who teach in community colleges and at the university level, including working with a diverse student body, cultural taxation, mentorship, and the demands of contingent labor.
Organizer: Michael Chavez, CSU Long Beach
Invited Panelists: Michael Chavez, CSU Long Beach; Juan Pitones, Oxnard College; Rebecca Romo, Santa Monica College; Shiguero Tsuha, Pierce College; Claudia Lopez, CSU Long Beach; Yanira Fuentes, Riverside City College

Friday • 10:15 AM–11:45 AM Preparing Graduate Students for Teaching-Focused Colleges and Universities
The purpose of this session is to help prepare graduate students, many of whom attend R1 programs, for jobs and positions at teaching-oriented schools. This session was sparked by the idea that many graduate students who plan to apply to teaching-oriented schools are not exposed to them, and thus may not fully understand how these smaller schools may differ from R1 schools. Topics of this session may include how to prepare job application materials, the ways in which the work environment differs, the expectations placed on faculty in teaching-oriented schools, and other insights useful for students who are interested in pursuing teaching-oriented schools after graduate school.
Organizer: Eric Allen, Washington State University
Invited Panelists: Jodi O’Brien, Seattle University; Lindsey Trimble-O’Connor, CSU Channel Islands; John Stover, Santa Rosa Junior College Petaluma; Marisol Clark-Ibáñez, CSU San Marcos

Friday • 12:00 PM–1:30 PM Be The Change You Wish To See In The World: Teaching Careers At The Community College Level, Sponsored by Committee on Community Colleges
This panel will address the opportunities and rewards (as well as the challenges) presented by teaching at the community college level. Panelists ranging from beginning to veteran instructors, who represent colleges in several different states, will share their experiences and have an in-depth Q&A regarding community college teaching as an academic career option.

Invited Panelists: Celeste Atkins, Cochise College; Alondo (A.C.) Campbell, Santa Ana College; Linda Rillorta, Mt. San Antonio College; David Hyde, South Puget Sound Community College; Elizabeth Bennett, Central New Mexico Community College

Friday • 1:45 PM–3:15 PM Applying for Jobs in Academia
Panelists from different types of collegiate institutions discuss the issues and pitfalls of applying for jobs in academia, both in general and specific issues to the type of institution.
Organizer: Harry Mersmann, San Joaquin Delta College
Invited Panelists: Sharon Yee, Chandler Gilbert Community College; Dan Poole, Salt Lake Community College; Ami Mezahav, Flath

Friday • 3:30 PM–5:00 PM And Now For Something Completely Different: How to Get a Job at a Community College, Sponsored by Committee on Community Colleges
Getting a job at a community college is very different from landing employment at a four year institution. This panel will examine the process of job acquisition at the community college level in four states (California, New Mexico, Utah and Arizona) and provide attendees with a number of hints and tips to assist in the job search and interview processes.
Organizer: Harry Mersmann, San Joaquin Delta College
Invited Panelists: Aya Ida and Todd Migliaccio, CSU Sacramento; Christy Glass, Utah State; Amy J. Orr, Linfield College; Sally Raskoff, Los Angeles Valley College

Support Student Travel Grants to PSA
Purchase an item at the Silent Auction, or donate cash, check, or by credit card
The Silent Auction is located in the Regency Ballroom Foyer, on the 4th floor meeting room area. Come peruse the fabulous items donated by PSA attendees and committees.

Bids on items will close at noon on Friday; items must be paid for and picked up by noon on Saturday. You can pay by cash, check, or credit card. The Auction is sponsored by the PSA Endowment Committee.

Direct donations of money to Student Travel Grants can also be made to the cash jars. See a student volunteer if you want to donate by credit card.

Each year, PSA gives 50 grants of $125 to students who are presenting at the conference. Once facet of PSA’s mission is to support the next generation of sociologists—our students. Thank you for your donations towards this purpose!

Book Exhibit by the Library of Social Science
The book exhibit, run by the Library of Social Science, is located in Recency Ballroom H (the corridor area) on the 4th floor meeting room area.

If you have a question, stop by the PSA registration area in the 4th floor Regency Foyer.
Student Volunteers will be happy to help you. The registration desk is open from 7:30 am to about 7 pm (1 pm Saturday).
You can also pick up handouts about Long Beach (including on discounts at various tourist attractions and places to eat!) from the convention and visitors bureau.

Session 41  Beacon Ballroom B  Wednesday  •  5:15 PM–6:45 PM

Latinx Sociology: Sociological Stars Distinguished Lecture, Sponsored by the Emeritus and Retired Committee
Organizer & Presider: Dean Dorn, CSU Sacramento

Routes to Roots: Immigrant Home-Making in the Era of Fortified Borders
Pierrette Hondagneu-Sotelo, University of Southern California

This lecture will discuss the multiple ways in which diasporic and immigrant communities make "home" for themselves, even under conditions of hostility and ambivalence. Drawing mainly from a study of the Latino immigrant transformation of South L.A., but also referencing scholarship conducted outside of the United States, this presentation will draw attention to dynamics of race and racism, materiality, place and identities in the immigrant home-making process. This immigrant home-making framework is suggested as an alternative to the paradigms of assimilation, transnationalism, and mechanisms of exclusion.

Session 42  Beacon Ballroom A  Wednesday  •  6:45 PM–9:00 PM

Welcome Reception--All registrants welcome!

| When it comes to predicting how long you will live, your zip code is more important than your genetic code. Thanks to a 10-year statewide initiative called Building Healthy Communities, communities like Long Beach that have been devastated by decades of racial and economic discrimination are organizing for positive social change to create health and opportunity for all residents. Utilizing community organizing, collaboration, and strategic communications, organizers are building long-term power to change the odds for marginalized people and neighborhoods who face significant health disparities. |
| Note: Toxic Tour of Long Beach follows this session, lead by Taylor Thomas, East Yard Communities for Environmental Justice. You must be pre-registered for the tour. |

Teaching Sociology: The Precariousness of Academic Freedom

President Amy Orr, Linfield College

Threats to academic freedom are not new. Scholars who wrote about academic freedom decades ago were hinting at some of the same issues that we face today. However, as time passes, the threats seem to grow stronger (largely as a consequence of the increasing corporatization of higher education). While some threats are overt, and tend to flare up at particular points in time, others are of a more covert nature that slowly erode the foundations of academic freedom. This talk focuses on a number of these threats (neoliberalism, contingency, political intolerance,….) and their relationship to sociology.

Introduction by: Amy Leisenring, San Jose State University (Program Chair)

Awards Ceremony: Augustine Kposowa, UC Riverside (Chair, Awards Committee) and More

A Closing Note from the Executive Director

Thank you for attending PSA 2018! I hope that you found many sessions and presentations of interest to you.

Please watch your email for a post-conference survey—and take a few minutes to give us feedback on what you enjoyed about the conference, and where PSA can improve.

PSA continues to thrive because of the dedication and hard work of many people. Although their work is largely invisible to PSA attendees, PSA’s officers and board members work throughout the year to make decisions for PSA and ensure its ongoing financial stability. Without them, PSA literally could not exist. Thank you to 2018 President Amy Orr and Vice President Wendy Ng, Treasurer Patricia Gwartney, and Secretary Tina Burdsall, as well as board members Karen Pyke, Michelle Camacho, Elaine Bell Kaplan, Kathy Kuipers, Vikas Gumbhir, Cynthia Siemsen, Judith Liu, Linda Henderson, Marcia Hernandez, Sharon Elise, and Amanda Admire for their service this year. You have been an amazing team to work with.

PSA also thrives because of the work of its elected and appointed committees, the Program Committee, the editorial team of Sociological Perspectives, and those who fulfill special tasks at the conference—our student volunteers and folks who volunteer to be Presiders in sessions.

Lora Bristow, Executive Director, Pacific Sociological Association

Note: Two annual meetings were held in 1934, one in January and the other in December. Meetings were not held during WWII; however, the Presidential Addresses were written and published in the Annual Proceedings. The PSA membership voted in 1944 to move the Annual Meeting from December to spring; consequently, there was no meeting held in 1945. The officers from 1945 were carried over to 1946. There was no Presidential Address given in this year. In 1953, in lieu of its regular meeting, the PSA co-sponsored the annual meeting of the American Sociological Society in Berkeley, which was the first time the ASA met in the Pacific region.

Engaging Millennials: Researching and Teaching, about Power, Diversity, and Change

President: Elaine Bell Kaplan, University of Southern California
Vice President: Kathy Kuipers, University of Montana
Program Chair: Sharon Davis, University of La Verne

About the theme, from President Elaine Bell Kaplan: We can bring the past to millennials and they can bring us into the future. Please join us in Oakland, California, for sessions on a full range of sociological topics, and a program showcasing discussions of the challenges facing 21st century Millennials, Sociologists, and others. We invite you to explore the stories and experiences of ordinary people who are confronting a society that has been deeply divided by ideology, race, class, and gender.
